Major General Harold R. Aaron, USA
Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence
Department of the Army
Washington, D. C. 20310

Dear Hal,

As you know from our recent MIB and USIB discussions the Strategic Warning Staff (SWS) is indeed a going operation. The Air Force has carried over their representation in the SWS from the old National Indications Center (NIC) days; the Navy is promising to provide a representative and the Marine Corps has expressed interest in participating in the SWS.

I feel it is important to complete this Service representation in the SWS and would ask that you give serious consideration to providing an Army analyst. The Service representatives, maintained on the Service rolls, provide us both with feedback. We look to them for in-depth analysis and particularly value their views based on their special Service knowledge.

For your convenience, I am enclosing two appropriate SWS job descriptions. If you have someone with the same general qualifications and a background in Korean affairs, however, that would also be very useful to the SWS. I look forward to hearing from you concerning your nomination of an Army representative to the SWS.

Sincerely,
